Dear Mr. Brown,

Thanks for your thoughtfulness in sending the Western letter. I might want to use it, and would appreciate a photocopy of that to the FBI.

They can tell you where they got the ammo. It is indicated in the source cited in WHITEHALL. It was readily available in Dallas stores, also with hunting projectile rather than military.

This kind of ammo is now available from European manufacturers. I have some samples.

The old ammo was declared surplus and sold in commercial channels. That is how it got into the stores.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I thought that the attached letter from Winchester-Western might be of some interest to you. As you may note, it states that the type of cartridge fired in Oswalds rifle on the day President Kennedy was killed has never been available to the general public. Several weeks ago I wrote to the F.B.I. to ask where they obtained the cartridges that were used in the tests but have not recieved an answer yet.

Sincerely,
